Experts Warn Men Against Ignoring Signs of Prostate Cancer

Ahmedabad, Frequent urination, a weak urine stream or difficulty passing urine are often dismissed as a normal part of ageing. However, healthcare experts caution that these seemingly common symptoms could also be early warning signs of prostate cancer, a disease that is becoming increasingly common among Indian men. They stress that greater awareness and timely medical evaluation are key to improving outcomes. "One of the biggest challenges in prostate cancer management is delayed diagnosis because many men assume urinary symptoms are simply age-related or hesitate to seek medical advice. Prostate cancer is highly treatable when detected early. Men above the age of 50, particularly those with a family history of the disease, should undergo regular screening and consult a specialist if they notice persistent urinary changes. Early detection not only improves survival but also offers better treatment options," said Dr. Atul Sharma. "Most urinary symptoms are not caused by cancer, but only a medical evaluation can determine the underlying cause. (13-9)

Dell Technologies expands its premium consumer portfolio

Ahmedabad, India is one of Dell Technologies' most important consumer markets, home to a young, digitally native population with growing ambitions across all aspects of life be it work, learning, creativity or gaming. As the AI PC wave redefines consumer expectations globally, India is emerging as one of the most significant opportunities for the next generation of computing.

Commenting on the launch, Chris Cowger, Dell Technologies said, "India is one of the most dynamic and demanding consumer markets in the world, home to consumers who expect technology that keeps pace with their ambitions. This launch clearly reflects our global consumer strategy - delivering the right technology for every customer, at every price point, in every market. Indian consumers deserve access to the full breadth of Dell's innovation and this portfolio is our commitment to that." Raj Kumar Rishi, Dell Technologies said, "We are focused on delivering the right experiences for every user segment, from students and young professionals to creators and gaming enthusiasts. (1-7)

The next opportunity is to build globally competitive technology brands from India. (13-9)

With Satvik in every salad and wellness in every serving

Ahmedabad, In a city where hectic work schedules and fast-paced lifestyles often leave little time for balanced meals, healthy eating has increasingly become a challenge rather than a choice. For working professionals, students living away from home, and senior citizens finding nutritious, home-style food that is both convenient and trustworthy remains a daily struggle. Recognising this growing need, Ahmedabad-based wellness food brand Satvik Salaad has launched its first Healthy Food Experience Outlet in Prahladnagar, marking its transition from a successful cloud kitchen to its first physical customer experience outlet, offering thoughtfully prepared salads, nutritious bowls, wraps, soups, smoothies, and cold-pressed juices that combine clinical nutrition with traditional Satvik cooking principles. The idea behind Satvik Salaad was born from the experiences of Clinical Dietitian Divya Agrawal, who spent years counselling patients living with diabetes, obesity, PCOS, thyroid disorders, and other lifestyle-related health conditions. Smart City's blunder in the mayor's own ward

Gandhinagar

The first rain has turned the tide on the crores of rupees spent on the smart city in Gandhinagar. The blind policy of blind development in his own ward of the mayor, who is the first citizen of Gandhinagar Municipal Corporation, has put the lives of citizens at risk. The new roads built at a cost of lakhs of rupees a few months ago have already been washed away in the first round of rains and become dilapidated.

Due to the corrupt and clumsy administration of the system, the condition of the iconic road, which is considered the identity of Gandhinagar, has also deteriorated to the point of being extremely bad. Due to the filling of rainwater, the iconic road from Raysan petrol pump to BAPS school has had to be closed. Iconic road not even inaugurated, waterlogged in first rain

The newly constructed iconic road from Raisan petrol pump in Gandhinagar to BAPS school, which has not even been officially inaugurated yet, has become waterlogged in the first rain itself. The so-called smart storm drains laid at a cost of crores have proven to be a complete failure, and the road is knee-deep in water. The situation has deteriorated to such an extent that the Municipal Corporation has been forced to close the road by barricading it and now they are having to install pumps to drain the water. The locals are very angry as the road was flooded even before the inauguration. Clumsy plan to lay pipeline outside the mayor's bungalow On the other hand, on the very eve of the monsoon, i.e. in the month of June, a clumsy plan was taken to dig up the main road outside the mayor's bungalow and lay the pipeline. Very sensitive places like the SMVS-run hospital and school are located on this road. Due to the gross negligence of continuing the excavation during the rainy season.
