Siemens Healthineers in India launches 'Knowing is Comforting' campaign

Ahmedabad: Siemens Healthineers in India kicked off the 'Knowing is Comforting' campaign to address Scanxiety, the heightened anxiety, fear, or distress that people may experience before, during, and after a medical imaging scan. The campaign aims to raise awareness and ease patient anxiety around diagnostic imaging such as Mammography, MRI, CT, and PET CT scans. Through a series of well-crafted awareness videos in English and nine regional languages- Assamese, Bengali, Hindi, Gujarati, Kannada, Marathi, Malayalam, Tamil, and Telugu- the campaign seeks to empower patients with a better understanding of modern imaging, highlighting how recent innovations have made scans better and more comfortable for everyone. Hariharan Subramanian, Managing Director of Siemens Healthcare Pvt. Ltd., added, "Early and precise diagnosis leads to better outcomes, timely treatment, and effective management of lifestyle diseases. Driven by years of listening to healthcare practitioners, patients, caregivers and understanding the challenges they face, we strive to deliver solutions that truly meet their needs. Through this awareness campaign, we reaffirm our mission to make healthcare more approachable and trusted, equipping every patient and caregiver with the knowledge they need to undergo the imaging process confidently, if advised." Yash Raj Films releases new poster of Rani Mukerji's Mardaani 3 hints at how Shivani will need all her resolve to solve a brutal case and put her life at risk for the same. The Mardaani series films, which is the only hit female led movie franchise of India, has consistently struck a chord with audiences for its hard-hitting narratives that serve as an eye opener for the society, forcing everyone to acknowledge the heinous crimes that are committed every day in our country. After two massive hits in Mardaani (2014) and Mardaani 2 (2019), this third chapter promises to be even darker and grittier, to give audiences a more edge of the seat theatrical experience. Directed by Abhiraj Minawala and produced by Aditya Chopra, the third instalment of YRF's iconic female-cop franchise is set to release in cinemas on February 27, 2026.
